

I'm horrified to read about the proposed sale of WMFE to the Daystar Television Network. It would be a terrible loss to lose the quality learning tools of public television in favor of a hate spewing fanatical network with a political agenda. If we expect our youth to excel in the world of global competition, we need to feed them programs that will improve their minds, not immerse them in violent ignorance. I'm shocked that the owners of WMFE would even consider selling to this fringe element.

Barbara Lancki